Dulles To Head Group At Turkey

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles announced today he will head the U. S. observer delegation to the Baghdad Pact meeting Jan. 27-30 at Ankara, Turkey.

Dulles' decision apparently was aimed at dramatizing U. S. determination to promote closer liaison among all free world alliances. The decision was disclosed in a State Department announcement which said simply:

"The secretary general of the Baghdad Pact has been informed that Secretary of State Dulles will head the U. S. observer delegation to the fourth Baghdad Pact ministerial session which will be held Jan. 27-30, 1958, in Ankara, Turkey."

Support

The United States has supported the pact since its formation Feb. 24, 1955, at Baghdad. However, it is not officially a member, for a number of reasons.

Members include Iraq, Turkey, Pakistan, Britain and Iran.

Following Soviet scientific-military-economic advances last fall, the United States moved to seek greater interdependence and interlocking among its defense alliances.

In line with this, the 15-government chiefs at this month's Atlantic Pact — NATO — summit conference in Paris voted to "promote greater unity, greater strength and greater security not only for our own nations, but also for the world at large."

Dulles met separately last week with the ambassadors of the 20 other American republics comprising the Rio Pact and the ambassadors of the seven other nations which make up the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization—SEATO.

Dulles briefed these envoys on the Paris NATO meeting, pursuing the policy of closer consultation and liaison among free world pact members everywhere.

Officials said his decision to go to Ankara next month was a similar step.

Little Girl Found In Woods

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va., Dec. 29 (AP)—Three-year-old Shirley Ann Ramsburg, missing for more than 48 hours in the rugged Blue Ridge mountains, was found by a search party today.

The blonde-haired tot was lying beside a tree when discovered by a volunteer searcher, Bill Rogers of Martinsburg, W. Va. Her face was grimy and she had lost her coat, shoes and socks. She began crying when Rogers approached.

DR. SALK WORKS ON CANCER WEAPON—Dr. Jonas E. Salk (left), who developed the polio vaccine, confirms that he is at work in his laboratory in the University of Pittsburgh on a new test tube technique. In a recent paper, Dr. Salk revealed that antibodies have been produced which attack both cancer and normal cells. At right is Elsie N. Ward, a research associate in bacteriology, who worked with Dr. Salk in developing a color test to measure antibodies, thus speeding up a tedious process. The work is supported by National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis.

Scientist Urges Using Cancer To Fight Cancer

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 29 (AP)—A scientist today proposed using the products of a cancer to combat cancer.

In all growth, cells produce substances to limit growth, said Prof. S. Mery Rose, University of Illinois zoologist.

"Now an attempt should be made to collect the products of a cancer, concentrate them, and use them back on the cancer," he said at a session of the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science.

Possibility Looms
This possibility looms from increasing understanding of some basic mysteries of growth, Prof. Rose said.

Cells of many simple animals will grow missing parts, then stop growing. The locations where cells lie within an embryo or egg partly determines what type of organ they will develop into.

Cells pass along inhibitory information to other cells, Prof. Rose said. When tissues have reached a certain status, they can thus prevent other tissues from developing similarly.

Cells which have become different enough aren't affected by the products from their parent tissue, and then are free to grow.

Own Inhibitors
Normally this growth is self-limiting because it produces its own peculiar inhibitors.

But cancerous tissues "are composed of sickly abnormal cells which die almost as rapidly as they reproduce. There never is a great mass, and presumably never a limiting concentration of inhibitors."

Finding and concentrating the inhibiting products, therefore, offers a way to halt or control the cancerous growth.

East Germany Imposes Restrictions

BERLIN, Dec. 29 (AP)—Communist East Germany today imposed travel restrictions on Allied civilians — including diplomats — traveling in and out of isolated Berlin. The Allies planned a protest to Russia.

In an obvious effort to force recognition from the West, the Communist regime announced that effective Jan. 1 travelers must have East German instead of Soviet visas to enter and pass through the satellite nation.

In effect, it is another Berlin blockade with passage of Western civilians in and out of the old German capital possible only by air if they refuse to get East German visas.

Announcements
The regulations were announced in the East Berlin press. East German officials sent notices to the U. S., British and French missions posted here 110 miles behind the Iron Curtain.

The Communists side-stepped a crisis similar to the 1948-49 Soviet blockade of West Berlin by exempting the Allied military garrisons from the regulations.

Replying swiftly, a U. S. mission spokesman announced: "We have no intention of applying to the East Germans for visas." The British and French reacted similarly.

The West has refused to recognize the East German regime. Under four — power occupation accords, accredited Allied civilians have been able to obtain Russian visas for travel through East Germany.

The Western Big Three in cooperation with West Germany have been stubbornly opposing Russia's step-by-step policy of granting all the trappings of sovereignty to the German puppet state.

Allied diplomats expressed the hopeful opinion the restrictions would apply to them only on trips within East Germany and not on the 110-mile autobahn-rail corridor from the West German border to Berlin.

Javits To Renew Push For Stronger Civil Rights Laws During Session Of Congress

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Sen. Javits (R-NY) said today he will push for stronger civil rights legislation in the coming session of Congress despite the cooling-off period recommended by administration spokesmen.

Javits said he respects the administration's reported position. However, he said Congress members have a "responsibility to press forward whenever the opportunity presents itself to fill the gaps in civil rights legislation."

The New York Republican said in a statement he will introduce a bill to authorize the attorney general to bring injunctive proceedings to enforce civil rights in general, as proposed by the administration at the last session of Congress.

Bitter Struggle
This part of the administration bill was eliminated after a bitter struggle. The civil rights measure finally enacted—the first since the 1870s—limited the use of injunctive proceedings to the enforcement of voting rights.

It also provided for the establishment of a Civil Rights Division in the Justice Department and the appointment of a six-member commission to study civil rights laws and practices and to submit recommendations to the President.

While Javits said he hoped his bill to broaden the new civil rights law would rally "Substantial support," legislation moving in the opposite direction is being drafted for possible introduction by Southern senators.

Atty. Gen. Rogers, whose recent appointment still is subject to Senate action, said earlier this month he did not plan to recommend to Eisenhower that any additional civil rights legislation be submitted to Congress.

He told a news conference the issues had been fully debated at the last session and said he thought it would be best to "let a little time elapse and see how the new law works."

Similarly, Vice President Nixon said in an interview in Miami yesterday that new civil rights legislation now probably would do more harm than good because it might set up a reaction.

Fire Damages Home
CROYDON, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—A 22-room vacant home along the Delaware River was damaged heavily by a pre-dawn fire today. The house, vacant since June, was owned by William Naylor of Bristol Borough who was planning to convert it into an apartment building.

LONDON, Dec. 29 (AP)—Moscow radio claimed a record for the Soviet Union today in the ascent of a weather balloon.

It said the balloon soared 41 kilometers — 25.5 miles — over the central Asian Republic of Kazakhstan.

Africa-Asia Airs Plans

Resolutions Attack Powers In West

CAIRO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Nationalization ranked high among topics in the drafting of resolutions at the African-Asian conference tonight.

An informed source said a resolution completed in the Economic Committee approves government takeover of property as "lawful means and a right which is acknowledged for every nation in accordance with the principles of national sovereignty."

The committee was reported ready to adopt it.

400 Delegates
The resolution would still be subject to approval by the full conference of 400 delegates from 42 nations and colonies at its closing business session Wednesday.

First mention of nationalization at the conference was made Friday in the economic report by the Soviet delegation.

The Russians offered to extend economic aid or loans for all African-Asian countries. But their report also in effect called for nationalization of foreign enterprises as steps toward obtaining funds for industrial development.

The report praised Egypt for nationalizing the Suez Canal and also the "Indonesian patriots now fighting to nationalize Dutch banks and other enterprises."

All conference committees and subcommittees sat down tonight to put the final touches on resolutions.

It appeared there will be no mention of an African-Asian common market in any Economic Committee resolutions. Instead a draft resolution reportedly calls for study and exploration of "all concrete possibilities for more convenient ways of trading methods and payment among African-Asian countries."

Loyal Dog Rewarded With Statue

BORGO SAN LORENZO, Italy, Dec. 29 (AP)—Townfolk unveiled a statue here today of Fido, a dog who has remained faithful to his dead master for 13 lonely years.

The word Fido means loyalty in Italian. And because he lived up to his name, the small brown-and-white mongrel has become a hero in this little central Italian town and the nearby hamlet of Lucio di Mugello.

The two communities gave Fido a gold medal seven weeks ago. Today Mayor Giuseppe Graziani presided at the unveiling in the Borgo San Lorenzo town square of the ceramic statue, paid for by a public collection.

Bus Home
Fido lives beneath a bus which parks every night in Lucio di Mugello. His late master, Carlo Soriani, used to ride the bus every day from his home in Lucio di Mugello to a factory where he worked in Borgo San Lorenzo.

Soriani rescued Fido from a river in which he had been thrown by his former owner. For the next two years, until Soriani was killed in a wartime air raid, the dog followed him each morning to the bus stop and then waited there until he returned.

Fido continued to go to the bus stop after Soriani's death. He sleeps under it since the bus remains in the village square overnight. The people of Borgo San Lorenzo and Lucio di Mugello bring him food every day.

Date Set For New Subway Strike

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Transport Workers Union voted today to strike the city's subways and bus lines Tuesday midnight when its current contract expires unless a settlement is reached.

The action came only two weeks after the end of a strike by subway motormen which caused the worst transit tieup in the history of New York. Buses continued to run during that eight-day strike.

The TWU, headed by Michael Quill, has threatened to halt subway service many times over the years, but the threat never has materialized.

Second Viewing

Sputnik Makes Showing In Monroe County Sky

SPUTNIK Number Two passed over Monroe County at 5:50 p.m. yesterday and should make another appearance in local skies at about 6 p.m. today.

This bit of scientific information was presented to The Daily Record last night by Clayton E. Doll, a clerk at the East Stroudsburg Post Office and a resident of East Stroudsburg RD 2.

Clayton and his two sons, Armond and Donald, saw the second Russian Sputnik clearly moving from Southwest to Northeast. It was visible right near the Evening Star.

Clayton, who was the first person to see the original Sputnik in Monroe County, announced that the second Sputnik should appear slightly more west today than it did yesterday.

Armond, who witnessed Sputnik for the first time, is visiting his parents after a lengthy stay in Portuguese East Africa, where he is a missionary.

Head Of Russia's Sputnik Program Accuses U. S. Of Trying To Frighten World

MOSCOW, Dec. 29 (AP)—The head of Russia's Sputnik program charged today that "reactionary leaders" in the United States were trying to use the International Geophysical Year program to frighten the world.

"In pursuit of their positions-of-strength policy," said Eugene K. Federov, "they are trying to apply all achievements of science first of all to war—hot war or cold war, psychological war or any other kind of war."

Writing in Pravda, the organ of the Soviet Communist party, Federov praised Communist party chief Nikita Khrushchev's proposal for competition in science and technology between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Simple Truth"
"Reactionary leaders of the capitalist world do not want and cannot understand the simple truth of this proposal," he said.

"Shameless propagandizing of the notorious Vanguard project" and discussions in the United States of meteorological warfare are aimed at "frightening the whole world," he added.

As a corresponding member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences, Federov usually restricts his public statements to science rather than politics.

Federov said the United States is now "bending over backwards to shoot anything off into space" in an effort to bolster the prestige it lost because of Russia's two earth satellites.

He scoffed at the U. S. Vanguard project's attempt to launch an earth satellite which he described as weighing less than one-third of one per cent of Sputnik II. He called it a "complete bust."

The Soviet Sputniks, he said, are "a reflection of the growing might of the Socialist system in competition with capitalism."

South Korea, Japan Agree

TOKYO, Dec. 29 (AP)—Japan and South Korea today took the biggest step to end their angry feud since formal talks broke down four years ago.

The two neighbors agreed to release 850 Japanese fishermen held in Korea and 463 Koreans detained in Japan as a preliminary to resumption of negotiations for a treaty and normal diplomatic relations.

Best Possible Christmas Gift

PITTSBURGH, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Christmas present of a Pittsburgh firm arrived from Munich, Germany, today—a 17-month-old girl who was reunited with her parents.

The child is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Rector, who live in Mahoningtown, Pa., a small community about 45 miles north of Pittsburgh.

U.S. Official Sees Bright 'Moon' Future

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—The director of America's Project Vanguard said today that within the next year U. S. earth satellites may prove more useful than Russia's Sputniks from a scientific standpoint.

Dr. John P. Hagen said in an ABC-TV interview, "College News Conference," that the number and value of satellite experiments must be reviewed before the relative merits of U. S. and Russian programs can be determined.

End Of Year
Such a review can not be made, he said, until the end of the International Geophysical Year on Dec. 31, 1958.

Hagen suggested that Vanguard satellites, though smaller than Russia's, may prove superior because of better and more compact instrumentation.

Russia's Sputnik II weighs about 1,000 pounds compared with the 21-pound sphere which the United States plans to loft into space next March.

Asked if the United States could put up a 1,000-pound satellite at this time, Hagen said that "we could, with our present capabilities, come awfully close to launching a 1,000-pound satellite."

Asked why the United States doesn't launch such a satellite if it can, Hagen said "we are planning to improve our satellite program after Vanguard." What is done will depend, he said, on the support the program gets from Congress and the Pentagon.

Hagen said another attempt to launch a Vanguard test satellite will be made "in not too long a time." But he said it might not be done within 30 days of the Dec. 6 failure of the first launching try, as some officials had predicted.

No Setback
He said the Dec. 6 failure had not set back the project's goal of launching a fully instrumented satellite next March.

On another television program, Dr. Joseph Kaplan, chairman of the U. S. committee for the IGY, said Russia is sharing data on Sputnik II "in a very satisfactory manner."

Kaplan said in a local television interview that the Soviets have supplied detailed information on the orbit of their second earth satellite.

get an injunction against a strike on the publicly owned transit system, but Quill has said he would ignore such an order and go to jail if necessary.

If he is jailed, he has said, the strike would be run by "second, third and fourth-level" TWU leaders.

Quill told the mass meeting there would be "no extensions of the contracts on any lines" but said the TWU was ready to "do our best to conclude an agreement."

Figure May Be Listed At $74 Billion

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower is expected to send Congress next month a budget approaching 74 billion dollars, highest in peacetime and comparable to the peak spending of the Korean War.

An official said today the administration still hopes to balance this reply-to-Russia budget for fiscal 1959, despite the current decline in federal revenue caused by a business recession.

Some budget decisions remain to be made, this high source indicated, including whether to ask for a special military contingency fund of perhaps 500 million dollars to be used at Eisenhower's discretion.

Standby Resources
Such a fund was described as one of several proposals advanced with the aim of giving the President standby resources to exploit any promising advance in rocket weaponry.

In nondefense categories, little if any cost reduction is foreseen in spite of Eisenhower's November call for the outright elimination of some "desirable" but "less essential" programs.

The official suggested the administration is trying to find additional money for the missiles race partly from cutbacks in existing military programs. He gave this overall picture of the budget outlook as it stands today:

"Spending apparently will be somewhere between 73 billion and 74 billion dollars, but closer to the high figure."

"Within the military budget there will be cutbacks in some areas and increased spending emphasis in newer areas. Total spending will be higher."

"On the civilian side the main idea will be to prevent any increase."

The budget for the government year starting next July 1 therefore will be sharply up from the 72-billion-dollar total officially scheduled for this 1958 fiscal year—a sum which Secretary of Defense McElroy has indicated may actually rise one billion or so because of accelerated military spending.

McElroy's share of the new budget will be in the neighborhood of 40 billion dollars, compared with the original ceiling of 38 billion dollars for this year and actual outlays now estimated at around 39 billion.

President To Discuss Programs

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 29 (AP)—President Eisenhower will discuss new programs to promote science education when he meets here tomorrow with Secretary of Welfare Folsom.

There probably will be an announcement afterwards of administration plans in this field, press secretary James C. Hagerty said.

Eisenhower today made public a letter to an educator friend in which he emphasized that the nation cannot ignore the need for general education in its science buildup.

The letter was to Kevin McCann, former presidential aide who now is president of Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio.

Conference
A conference on the teaching of science and mathematics is being held at the college tomorrow, and Hagerty said the President's letter was made public because it fits in "quite closely" with the discussion Eisenhower will have with Folsom.

Eisenhower and Folsom will meet at the President's farm estate here.

Hagerty indicated the emphasis in the talks between the President and Folsom would be on some of these points:

1. A nationwide system for testing high school students.
2. A system of incentives for high-aptitude students to pursue scientific or professional studies.
3. A program to stimulate good quality teaching of mathematics and science.
4. Provision of more laboratory facilities and measures, including fellowships, to increase the output of qualified teachers.

Investigators Plan Trip Into Mine

AMONATE, Va., Dec. 29 (P)—Investigators plan a second trip to tomorrow into the explosion-racked Pocahontas Fuel Co. coal mine in a new attempt to learn what caused the blast of gas that killed 11 and trapped 14 other miners in the vast, subterranean tunnels for five hours last Friday.

A spokesman said the 30-member investigative unit spent four hours underground yesterday but was prevented from exploring the disaster area by the presence of remaining gases.

William A. Fullerton, special assistant to the president of Pocahontas, called the initial trip underground an "orientation" visit. He said the probe will be renewed tomorrow provided proper ventilation is restored in the damaged sections.

The blast scene is approximately two miles from the 500-foot deep entrance shaft here. It is an eight-mile underground trip from the shaft to the point where the canvas draped bodies of 11 miners were brought to the surface on the West Virginia side of the state line at daybreak yesterday.

Since coal is removed from the mine at the West Virginia end the investigation is headed by Crawford Wilson, chief of the West Virginia Department of Mines. Also on hand for the probe is Marling Amkeny, chief of the U.S. Bureau of Mines.

The entrance here has been barred to all but repair workers and the investigators. The miners remained at home Sunday, saddened by the tragedy.

Mothers To Visit Sons In China

NEW YORK, Dec. 29 (P)—Three American mothers depart Wednesday on a pilgrimage of love to the sides of their three sons, imprisoned for years in Red China.

As they travel halfway around the world, the mothers will carry in their hearts a wistful hope—that somehow mother love and determination can soften Communist rulers and earn the release of the sons.

"This will be the happiest New Year of my life," said one mother, Mrs. Ruth Redmond, 58, of Yonkers, N. Y.

With Mrs. Mary V. Downey of New Britain, Conn., and Mrs. Jessie Fecteau, 58, of Lynn, Mass. Mrs. Redmond will leave Idlewild Airport by plane at noon New Year's Day.

None of the women have seen their sons in at least six years—since they were imprisoned as civilians in 1951 on spy charges brought by their Chinese captors. Mrs. Redmond hasn't seen her only son in 11 years.

The trip to China was made possible by the recent reversal of State Department policy allowing relatives of imprisoned Americans to visit them there. The Chinese government offered such visitation rights last year.

Mrs. Fecteau's son was a civilian employee of the American Army when he was imprisoned for 20 years.

She decided to make her pilgrimage without her husband "because women will make a better appeal than men." She hopes to bring her son home with her. But her husband said, "I doubt very much that she can bring him with her. But it would be a wonderful thing."

Mrs. Downey is a widow who teaches in a New Britain elementary school. Her late husband was a probate judge and an uncle of singer Morton Downey. Her son, John, 27, also was a civilian Army employee. He was sentenced to life in prison.

Mrs. Downey has a daughter and another son, William. The latter was discharged from the Army a few days ago so he can accompany his mother to China. The daughter, Joan Marie, a school teacher in Plainville, Conn. was married yesterday.

Mrs. Redmond is a dietitian in the Yonkers school district. Her husband is ill and unable to work. They have one other child, a daughter.

The son, Hugh, 38, represented an American import-export firm in Shanghai when he was imprisoned for life.

The three mothers will travel together to China, then split up for the visits to their sons. They will be reunited in Hong Kong Jan. 25 for the flight back home. Mrs. Redmond voiced the thought in the minds of all of them when she said:

"After my two weeks are up, how will I ever say goodbye to him?"

Garcia To Take Office In Philippine Islands

MANILA, Dec. 29 (P)—Carlos P. Garcia, a mild-mannered man with a flair for party politics and poetry, will be inaugurated as president of the Philippines tomorrow. He faces this country's gravest crisis in its 11 years of independence from American rule.

Whatever the remedies Garcia attempts, this country's 22 million people seem destined for some unaccustomed hard times.

As vice president, Garcia succeeded to the presidency when Ramon Magsaysay died in a plane crash last March. He won easy re-election in November.

With the presidency, Garcia inherited the nation's snow-balling economic troubles. Basically the problem is too many luxuries coming in and not enough local products going out.

Administration
The 61-year-old President's administration has already decreed a strong austerity program. Non-essential imports have been virtually cut off. Even necessary goods are being curtailed to save what's left of the country's dangerously low international reserves.

Despite his nine months in office, Garcia remains basically an untested president. From March to mid-November he was busy getting nominated and elected. In that period he showed unexpected political prowess. He has shown signs of the same qualities in the current economic crisis.

In foreign policy, Garcia, and his country, are staunchly anti-Communist.

Austin Rocket Society Meets Failure In Two Attempts To Launch Guided Missile

Cellar Calls For Ike To Decide

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (P)—Rep. Celler (D-NY) said today that President Eisenhower, as "the highest duty to his country," should step aside if his health prevents discharge of his responsibilities.

Celler, who is chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, declared in a statement that "government by committee, a kind of unacknowledged regency," is no substitute for the presidency.

He said the government is now operating under a regency of three or four men.

He named presidential assistant Sherman Adams and "a few of the Cabinet heads" as nonelected officials who "make the decisions for good or ill that affect this country's and, indeed, the free world's destinies."

Problems
While calling on Congress to act next session to remedy the problems arising from the disability of a president, Celler also asserted:

"If the chief executive is unable, willing though he may be, to fulfill his duties and powers of his office, then he cannot be permitted to fill the void by a select palace guard."

"The highest duty to his country—the greatest sacrifice, greater even than continuing in office at tremendous cost to his health—is clear—to resign temporarily and permit the vice president to take over as acting president with powers and duties of his office."

Celler also declared that the problem of disability and "government by committee" is compounded when the President, "under a mistaken sense of duty, continues as part-time president."

Hershey Group Quits Union

HERSHEY, Pa., Dec. 29 (P)—Employees of the Hershey Chocolate Corp. voted unofficially 829-1 yesterday to quit the International Bakery and Confectionery Workers Union.

By an identical margin, the 2,400-member local voted to apply for membership in the newly formed American Bakery and Confectionery Workers. The 144,000-member international union thus may lose one of its biggest locals.

Two Cars Collide At Intersection

NO ONE was injured in a collision between a car and a station wagon at the intersection of Route 12 and 209 at Snyder's

State Police of the Stroudsburg barracks said the station wagon, driven by William Smale, 37, of 1510 Fairmont St., Bethlehem, was rammed in the rear by a car driven by Charles F. Cook, 16, of 2040 Fairlane Ave., Bethlehem, as Smale stopped at the intersection.

Traveling South
Both vehicles were traveling south on Route 12 at the time. Damage was estimated at $150 to Cook's car and $175 to the station wagon.

Police said Cook will face a reckless driving charge as a result of the crash.

Second Attempt
A second attempt, this time with the mouse aboard, failed when the rocket's ignition system refused to function. It was decided that repairs could not be made in the field in the near-zero weather and further shots were put off to a future date as yet not set.

Explosion of the first rocket was laid to a fault in the steel pipe used for the rocket body. The students, along with their adviser, Sister Duns Scotus, a physics and chemistry instructor at Pacelli Parochial High School here, said they will try to obtain new stainless steel for use in making their next rocket. The tubes for today's rockets were obtained from a junk yard.

The mouse, dubbed Ulysses, was taken back to his care by a high school chemistry laboratory to await the next flight.

Ike Sends Sympathy

GETTYSBURG, Pa., Dec. 29 (P)—President Eisenhower sent a message of sympathy to the people of flood-stricken Ceylon today and announced that four U. S. Navy ships are rushing aid there at his order.

The aircraft carrier Princeton, with 20 helicopters aboard, two destroyers and a seaplane tender are enroute to Ceylon, where floods drove some 300,000 persons from their homes.

Appeal Answer
White House press secretary James C. Hagerty told a news conference the President has dispatched the ships in answer to an appeal from the government of Ceylon.

Hagerty said the Princeton and two destroyers of the 7th Fleet, the Henderson and Sutherland, are due at Seylon Thursday with food and medical supplies.

Russia Lists New Goals For Science

LONDON, Dec. 29 (P)—Claiming two Sputniks, an atomic surface ship and successful long range missiles to its credit, Soviet science today said it will:

1. Transmit electric power by rays, without cables.
2. Send small atomic power stations in trucks wherever needed.
3. Apply nuclear energy to surface transport.
4. Build an atomic locomotive to race from 150 to 180 m.p.h.

Academician Anatoly Blagonravov, who often acts as official spokesman-predictor for Soviet scientists, outlined the program in an article in the newspaper Soviet Aviation. He fixed no times to any of the predictions.

Moscow radio, in a broadcast based on the Blagonravov article, said Soviet science already has developed a metal-ceramic alloy withstanding temperatures of 2,000 degrees centigrade. It said the alloys were evolved from titanium and boron carbides.

Blagonravov said Soviet scientists also have sent particles almost at the speed of light in a giant atom-smasher.

Senator Lists Both Parties Responsible

WASHINGTON, Dec. 29 (P)—The Democrats as well as the Republicans are responsible for the position of the United States at the present time, Sen. Mike Mansfield (D-Mont) said today.

"I think we're all responsible," said Mansfield, assistant majority leader in the Senate. "It's no time to become political or partisan."

Interviewed on the NBC-TV program, "Meet the Press," the senator said he considers the United States weaker than Russia at the present time.

"As a matter of fact," he said, "I think we've been outmaneuvered, outwitted, and possibly outflanked by the Soviet Union."

Allies
He said U.S. allies in Western Europe realize now that Soviet advances in missiles have shifted the primary target of any attack to the U.S. mainland. Western Europe is less "under the gun" than it used to be, he said, and the attitude of nations there toward the United States reflects this.

Mansfield criticized our foreign policy in the Middle East.

"The Eisenhower Doctrine is neither a doctrine nor policy," he declared. "It has been ineffective, done nothing in the way of bringing stability to that area."

Mansfield also criticized the administration's foreign aid program, urging more long-term loans to allies and less grants.

He asserted, however, that he did not think the President or Secretary of State Dulles should resign.

Communists Move To Make Friends

BUDAPEST, Dec. 29 (P)—Hungary's Communist regime made another bid today to improve relations with the churches, cancelling a planned 25 per cent reduction in its aid to the Calvinists.

The Calvinist Church has about two million members among Hungary's 10 million. It is the second largest denomination in Hungary.

Agreement
The Communists signed a similar agreement with Archbishop Josef Groez of the Roman Catholic Church in October. The Roman Catholics are about three times as numerous as the Calvinists.

All denominations get subsidies from the Communist government for the payment of clergymen's salaries and other expenses.

Under an agreement signed in 1948 before the Communists completely took over the government, state aid to the Calvinists was to be reduced 25 per cent in 1958.

Budapest newspapers said a new agreement eliminating the reduction was signed Friday by Bishop Albert Berecky, who heads the Calvinist Reformed Church in Hungary, and Janos Horvath, chief of the government's Church Affairs Bureau.

The new agreement said: "In this help the leadership of the Calvinist Church sees an expression of the government's good intentions toward the Church and therefore it expresses its sincere and grateful thanks."

"At the same time it assures the government that the Church as a whole will support the government with sincere readiness to aid in its efforts for peace and well-being of the Hungarian people and is taking part in realizing the aims of the People's Front."

Nothing Official
Nothing has been said officially about the subsidy to the Lutherans, a much smaller denomination. Relations between the Lutherans and the regime have been somewhat strained in recent weeks.

Churchmen who cooperate with the Communists get special favors. The Communists try to control church appointments.

Catholic priests are being tried for alleged activities during the anti-Russian revolt.

Josef Cardinal Mindszenty still is in the U. S. legation in Budapest, where he took refuge after the Russians crushed the revolt in November of 1956.

Teamwork In 1958

1958 would be an excellent year in which to demonstrate teamwork of the highest calibre.

It would be a year in which we could make giant strides toward goals for which we have long been shooting. It would be a year in which past difference could be forgotten and a solid task of planning unfolded for the future.

It would be an opportune time to forget politics, our private likes and dislikes and selfish motives. It would be the best time possible to work as a unit, with the improvement of our community as the common goal.

Time is an important factor as we make our move for progress. It is just as important to community projects as it is in a race. Too much time consumed in action may result in the complete loss of the project.

The Thruway, Shortway, flood control, Mount Pocono Airport and planning and zoning are only a few of the forward movements now underway in Monroe County.

Speed is necessary in each of the plans. Money of course is of the utmost importance, but speed in action and solid planning are next in line. The second and third named necessities when mixed properly may bring about money in an easier fashion than possible when all corners pull against the middle.

We must forget rivalries and hate. We must unite in a strong unit to bring about each forward step planned. It may not be to our private interests, but it may be to our betterment in future years.

Yes, the time is ripe for more people to become interested in community and county projects. The time is also upon our public office holders to drop thoughts of the past and move strongly toward the future.

It's time to form a strong team, one that will advance with the times and make our dreams come true.

Opinions Of Other Editors

From All Of Us Taxpayers

In this jolly season of generosity and good will, it seems only fitting that the department of agriculture should announce the list of 67 individuals, corporations, partnerships, estates and farming groups who received 1957 soil bank acreage payments of $50,000 or more.

The 67 received total payments from the United States treasury of $5,260,000 for not producing two million bushels of wheat, 40,000 bales of cotton and 223,000 hundredweight of rice. All of these payments went into states of the southwest and west. There was no Wisconsin name in the list.

The largest single payment went to Garvey Farms, Colby, Kas., which received $278,187 for withholding 22,779 acres of wheat land of Sahuarita, Ariz., came in second, getting $209,701 for withholding 1,666 acres of cotton land.

Here are a few more examples of this give and take:

The Mississippi state penitentiary, $71,000 for not growing 1,000 acres of cotton. J. W. Baughman, Liberal, Kas., $102,357 for not growing 40,863 acres of wheat. Ray Flanagan, Red Top, Calif., $138,122 for not growing 748 acres of cotton and 880 acres of rice. Estrella Land & Cotton Co., Glendale, Ariz., $96,706 for not growing 586 acres of cotton. American Christian institute, Phoenix, Ariz., $73,088 for not growing 553 acres of cotton.

Well, gentlemen, corporations and all, a Happy New Year from all of us taxpayers!—Milwaukee Journal.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

Brundage In Control

Washington, Dec. 29 — The real ruler of the stormy-controversial missile program is Budget Director Percival Brundage.

The 65-year-old former auditor, who was named to his key post — controlling job last year, has more actual power over missile development than any other official in the government — except the President.

This startling information comes personally from William Holaday, the avowed director of the missile program.

Holaday disclosed this extraordinary backstage situation during vigorous cross-examination by Senators John Stennis (D., Miss.), and Estes Kefauver (D., Tenn.), of the Preparedness Investigating Committee. Under their sharp questioning he revealed that:

Brundage not only can overrule Holaday, but also Defense Secretary McElroy and Dr. James Killian, White House science adviser.

Dr. Killian actually is without authority to require anything. He is consulted by Holaday, and presumably other officials, if the noted Boston scientist asks for that.

In effect, Brundage can veto congressional action on missiles. Regardless of how much money Congress votes for these life-and-death weapons, the Budget Director has been given the power to bar the spending of all or part of these funds. And his edict can be set aside only by the President.

This was the first time these facts had come to light. They are recorded in the stenographic transcript of the Senate "probers' proceedings. When and how much of this testimony will be officially published is still to be determined.

Senators Stennis and Kefauver made no secret of their astonishment at Missile Director Holaday's jolting disclosures.

Amazing Admissions — Senator Kefauver also has learned that Holaday made another significant revelation concerning the widely-discussed-but-still-highly-secret Galther Report.

This is that funds are being increased only one-third next year to speed up development and production of ATLAS, the Air Force's most advanced intercontinental ballistic missile. This limited expansion has been fixed despite the Galther Report's urgent recommendation that ATLAS expenditures be tripled.

Direct information is in Kefauver's hands that Holaday told his assistants, "In principle, I concur with the Galther Report. But I don't know whether we can go as fast as it recommends. That will take a great deal of money."

After listening to Holaday explain he is top Pentagon boss of missiles, Kefauver bluntly questioned the extent of that authority.

"Do you control the allocation of funds for missiles?" demanded the Tennesseean. "Is that your responsibility, or someone else's?"

"I approve the expenditure of such funds," replied Holaday.

"By that do you mean you have the final voice," continued Kefauver.

"Well, if the Budget Bureau says it won't go along with an expenditure," said Holaday, "then the question has to be resolved by the President."

"Then you don't have the final authority," snapped Kefauver. "You may propose, but the Budget Director does the disposing. The final say is not yours."

"That is right," admitted Holaday.

This amazing acknowledgment drew a flurry of caustic questions from Senator Stennis as to just who is the real missile ruler.

"From what you have just told us," said Stennis, "it appears that after money has been appropriated for missiles, it is controlled by Budget Director Brundage. As Missiles Director, you do not exercise such control?"

"No, I don't," said Holaday.

"Even though, as Missiles Director, you decide on a plan and undertake to carry it out," continued Stennis, "Brundage can stop you dead in your tracks at any point by withholding the necessary funds. Is that correct?"

"Yes, sir," admitted Holaday.

"So you are not Director of Missiles so far as the all-important matter of money goes," continued Stennis.

"That is correct," said Holaday. "It would be necessary to go to the President to have a ruling against us rescinded. The President alone can override a Budget Bureau order halting the expenditure of funds."

"But the President is a very busy man," pointed out Stennis. "Why wouldn't your next recourse be to go to Dr. Killian? The country has been told with a great fanfare that Dr. Killian is the President's personal science adviser. Why wouldn't you see him about this?"

"Certainly the matter would be discussed with Dr. Killian," said Holaday, after some hesitation. "We would surely do that if he wanted us to. We're always glad to talk with him and get his views. But that procedure is not binding. Only the President can rescind a Budget directive."

This brought further exclamations of amazement from Senators Stennis and Kefauver.

"This is difficult to believe after all that has transpired in the past several months," declared Kefauver. "If I hadn't heard this testimony from your own lips, I would have doubted it."

"Just to make sure that we understand you correctly," said Stennis, "on any differences you have with Brundage, and even though the Secretary of Defense sides with you, Brundage is superior to both of you on money matters. If he says stop spending, then there is nothing you can do about that except to go to the President, if you can get to him."

"That is my understanding," replied Holaday.

Both Brundage and Holaday are slated for further questioning when the Preparedness Committee resumes hearings January 6.

Also under consideration is summoning former Defense Secretary Wilson for questioning. Pentagon sources have informed the "probers" that on May 13, 1956, Wilson issued a secret directive to Lieutenant General James Gavin expressly forbidding the use of the JUPITER or REDSTONE missiles to launch a satellite in outer space.

A copy of this order, issued through Army Secretary Wilber Brucker, is in the Committee's hands, and is to be made public.

Play It Safe

George Sokolsky Says...

The Year's End

The year, 1957, has not brought about any vast changes in government or politics; it has been a year of chaos and confusion and revolution in some countries, but on the whole, it was not very exciting. The greatest single event of the year was the orbiting of Sputnik I and Sputnik II and the failure of the United States to equal the Russian performance.

Whenever the strongest power on Earth is defeated in some manner, it becomes necessary for all other countries to readjust their thinking and their policies. Sputnik I created a sensation; Sputnik II was like a battle won; Floppin frightened our allies and the attendant publicity frightened the American people and forced the President to attend the NATO Conference in Paris despite his illness. He had to demonstrate his ability to be on the job to restore confidence in his Administration.

So the year ended on the NATO meeting with its compromise formula that our allies would continue to be allies if the United States agreed to meet the Russians on the disarmament question on a Foreign Secretary level. This compromise Eisenhower accepted and Khrushchev speedily turned down.

Khrushchev's response could have been anticipated because he needs a Summit Conference to continue to build his own power. This time, if a Summit Conference is held, he needs no Bulgarian to act as a front for him. He can be his own front.

In fact, he is more likely to demand that Mao Tse-tung go with him than Bulgarian, for Mao matters in the Communist world whereas Bulgarian is as dead as Zhukov or anybody else the West will raise up as a spectre for Khrushchev to strike down.

So a Summit Conference is not likely to occur, for Eisenhower is surely not anxious to sit down with Khrushchev and cannot sit down with Mao. It would lead to too much internal dissension just about the time when the American people are getting ready for a new Congressional election.

Eisenhower may not know much about politics but he is not likely to be misled.

The Pennsylvania Story

Tax Equalization Snafu

By Mason Denison
Harrisburg — One of the most haphazard laws ever placed on Pennsylvania's statute books, and there have been several, goes into effect with the start of the new year — with no penalty provision for lack of compliance.

This is only one of a series of flukes, or whatever else they might be termed, that are destined to bug Pennsylvania's so-called new "uniform" system of real estate assessments.

In a nutshell the 1951 act setting up the uniform assessment program provided that by Jan. 1, 1958 all counties other than first, second and third class counties shall have set up a uniform assessment program within each county.

Less than a score of the 59 counties coming under the act will have complied by the Jan. 1 deadline.

No one seems to know just how many actually have complied with the provisions of the act — for amazing though it may seem the Legislature in setting up the new law made no provision for any sort of statewide supervision, responsibility or even correlation.

The State Tax Equalization Board for example, one of the logical "control points", has absolutely nothing to do with the program.

In effect it is simply a conglomeration of 59 counties, each responsible to themselves or the sky — and that's where it ends.

Should a county fail to provide a uniform tax assessment program by the Jan. 1 deadline — and most of them will not — there is no penalty, there is no enforcement, in fact there is little other than legislative hot air.

Just what is the uniform assessment program? From the standpoint of taxpayers who are destined to pay more, it is worth looking into.

As conceived in the act the purpose unquestionably is noble. Beyond that point any resemblance to nobility ends. Basically this is the uniform tax assessment story.

As matters stand now each political subdivision within a county has its own tax assessment.

Weather — Nearly everybody in N.Y. City is shoveling snow, following a 25.8 snowfall. There is 40-inches of snow in Long Branch, N.J. Cars had difficulty in maneuvering in the Stroudsburg, Pennsylvania's death rate was lower than in several other States.

Birthday — Bobby Haigh celebrated his 8th birthday with a party two days after Christmas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Haigh.

Anniversary — Mr. and Mrs. Chas. R. Bensinger celebrated their 6th wedding anniversary over the weekend. They have two children, Charles and Susan.

On Trip — Mrs. Carl Keiss and son, Carl, Jr., are visiting relatives in Texas.

20 Years Ago

P.O. of A. — Miss Mae Shimer was elected pres't of Camp 209, P.O. of A. Miss Rachel Slutter was elected asst. pres't, Mrs. Hanna Doty, v.p., and Mrs. Mable Young, asst. v.p.

S. S. Class — The annual Christmas Party of the Westwood Class of Stbg. Meth. S.S., Mrs. Howard R. Flieger teacher, will be held on Thursday evening.

Anniversary — A dinner was given in honor of Russell Rinehart and his wife, Core Rinehart, at their home. They were married 16 years ago on Dec. 17.

Family Dinner — Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Boyer, Saylorburg, entertained members of the Newhart family with a turkey dinner on Christmas Day.

Anniversary — Mr. and Mrs. Harold Knipe celebrated their 16th wedding anniversary with a party.

ment schedule. It may — and does — vary from 20 per cent of market value to 50 or 60 per cent, in some cases even higher or lower.

Under the uniform tax assessment program, each county is supposed to adopt a system of equalized assessments — county-wide rather than via local political subdivisions.

This in turn involves reassessment of every property in the county to determine its present market value for assessment purposes.

Yet — there is no provision for a standard procedure in determining market values!

In other words, one county may adopt one procedure — and another county still another procedure.

Absolutely no yardstick has been provided in the law for the counties to follow.

For example, one county may hire a professional assessing outfit for the job — while a neighboring county may arbitrarily set up a phony schedule completely out of line, and in bitter economic competition, with the adjoining county.

It has already been done. In all of this however one point seems to be painfully significant:

Up to the present there have been 40 or 50 "yardsticks" within each county — roughly the opinions of each local assessor — but under the act which provides for no statewide uniformity, there apparently are destined to be 59 different yardsticks rather than one.

Good Evening Ladies!

Making Fools Of Selves

By Ken Duvall
While I believe, and have so said, that women make a sorry spectacle of themselves when they try to emulate the worst vices of men, I have no intention of joining a crusade now being organized by a sweet old lady in Cincinnati.

She says I'm just the man to head up a nationwide group of saloon singers dedicated to shaming women out of taverns by means of sentimental songs and hymns.

As I get the picture, I'm being invited to urge my girls from coast to coast to get together and form choral groups. Then, they would go from tavern to tavern, march right in and start singing to the women patrons. My correspondent says she's tried this in the past and it works. She herself has seen a number of conversions.

I'm sorry, lady, but I ran this idea up the flag pole and nobody saluted. All my friends tell me that I'm just not the type, and if I ever went into a saloon to sing the female occupants out of the place I'd likely end up by joining them when I discovered I couldn't whip them.

I have said before, and I say again, that women drink badly, but I never said they had no right to make fools of themselves if they want to. I just deplore the fact that they want to; and consider it an important facet of their struggle for equality with men.

Moreover, if I thought that raising my voice in song would do any good, I'd be off this minute to the joints where some of my weak brothers foregather. But this Cincinnati lady's assumption she had achieved conversions because some drunks wept openly while she and her girls were singing, appeals to me as faulty logic.

In any tavern, at any hour of the day or night, there is bound to be a substantial percentage of sober people, men and women. Sober people take on a supercilious air of superiority over tight people. These are the ones who would resent the intrusion of a bunch of lady singers and demand their expulsion by the barman.

Their attitude likely would be, "How dare you suggest conversion to those who have committed no sin?" They would argue that they were respective citizens and in the place on peaceful and perfectly moral errands, therefore they had a right to protection against this invasion of their privacy and personal privileges.

Drunks, on the other hand, are likely to be friendly to the whole idea and even join the singing, since every drunk believes he is a Sinatra or a Shore, depending on sex. They also may weep, but a drunk's tears scarcely ever signifies anything worth while. Almost any drunk will cry at the mention of his mother, but come sharply sober if anyone suggests that he send the old lady a few bucks.

Our singers, then, might set a whole tavern to rocking with a rendition of "Where Is My Wandering Girl Tonight?" and the tears might flow like Niagara and accomplish no more than a hearty round of applause and cries of "Beer for the old ladies, this is on me!"

The trouble with trying to convert people in taverns is that, drunk or sober, they are not in the mood, or in no condition, to make valid vows or sign pledges. I suggest, then, that these lady singers try to catch up with their feminine quarry at, say, six-thirty next morning. I understand that most ladies who try to keep up with the men in taverns are highly susceptible at that hour to suggestions that they reform.

On Broadway

The affairs of the world are managed absurdly and tragically. The inauguration of a new year, however, is a time for festivity. The traditional celebration is almost a testament of faith. A challenge to hope and a rebuke to despair. Paper hats certainly undermine dignity. Alcohol tends to overpower wisdom. Confetti-tossing is hardly an exercise in intellectual endeavor. The annual spree, nevertheless, also conveys something poignant and glorious. Here are people who can temporarily forget the fury and terror of the world crisis. And they defy the ominous thunder of the future — by tooting a horn or drinking a toast.

As Will Rogers once toasted: "Here's to the old year and the new. Today meets tomorrow. The end is the beginning."

There is truth and a touch of poetry in Alben Barkley's oft-quoted toast to children: "Here's to children! They enter your home and make such a racket for rightness or twenty years that you scarcely can stand it, then they depart, leaving the house so dimly silent you think you'll go mad."

Mark Twain's toast: "We haven't all had the good fortune to be ladies; we have not all been generals, or poets or statesmen; but when it comes to stand down to the babies, we stand on common ground — for we have all been babies."

Another Twain nifty: "Here's to the ships of our navy and the ladies of our land. May the first be ever well rigged — and the latter ever well manned."

Fred Allen was once introduced at a dinner with a windy and laudatory toast. After being showered with the superlatives, the comic arose and quipped: "An introduction is like a perfume. It smells beautifully, but shouldn't be swallowed."

The dolls, bless 'em, have inspired numerous toasts. One of the most quotable is Editor Ed Howe's: "To the Ladies — we admire them for their beauty, respect them for their intelligence, adore them for their virtue and love them because we can't help it."

Then there's George M. Cohan's: "Here's to the ladies we've loved, my lad... Here's to the lips we've pressed... For kisses and lasses, like lip-ur in glasses... The last is always the best."

The sales manager of a successful firm was moping in a corner one day. The boss noticed his depression and counseled, "Cheer up, Sam, business is wonderful! There's nothing to worry about! If you have a misfortune, look it right in the face and laugh at it."

"I wouldn't dare," admitted the sales manager. "She outweighs me by 30 pounds."

Boy Returns Home For Christmas

by Jim Riley

One of the best Christmas days spent in Monroe County this year was that celebrated by Mr. and Mrs. "Bud" Shupp and family. The Shupps live in the Snyder section.

The reason for all the excitement was the fact that Davey returned from the Monroe County General Hospital a day or two before the big holiday.

Davey, an eighth grade student at Stroud Union School, had been a patient at the hospital since October.

It was in October that Davey, playing with the Stroud Union Junior High football team, suffered a painful leg injury in a game. He had been hospitalized since that date.

But, Davey's home now and his very presence made this a memorable Christmas for the Shupp family.

Jay Martin, head of the purchasing department at Ronson Co., Delaware Water Gap, is showing progress in his battle to recover from a heart attack suffered last week.

Martin suffered the attack while driving his car. The automobile also crashed into a tree.

Everyone here is pulling for a rapid recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Frantz, Scotrun, and Mrs. Claude Metzgar, Ansonia, returned from a lengthy trip to the west right before Christmas.

The journey included visits to both New Mexico and Arizona.

Ed Jenkins, Skyline Inn, Mount Pocono, recently attended a meeting of the American Youth Hostels.

The meeting was held in Pottsville.

Just Between Us —

—By Bobby Westbrook

We may be, as dress salesmen insist to local buyers, at least a year behind the rest of the country in adopting new styles — but not for holiday parties that's for sure. At the Juniors' dance, at the open houses which crowded the calendar, at the teas and dinners—we could have managed a fashion show all our own.

Cause of most comment was a chemise of black chiffon with a double ruffle of black taffeta. It took courage, its wearer confessed, and she made herself leave the belt in the store lest she lose her nerve at the last minute and belt it in. On her it looked good, and will probably set a trend.

Less startling but equally becoming were the tiered sheath of black lace, the bell-shaped skirt of pink peau de soie, the bloused back dress of honey-colored satin. Honey satin was a popular note in many a dress and with mink it looked most luxurious.

Speaking of clothes, Evelyn Parth not only designed but made her own wedding dress, her bridesmaids' gowns and her own traveling suit. They were beautiful, too, and I couldn't be surprised if she'd be designing clothes for Hollywood, now that she and Jim Ifft are going to live in California.

Timbuctoo, that's where Jerry Ifft better decide to get married in, when his turn finally comes. He's sent two older brothers and a sister off on very odorous wedding trips, and he has plenty coming to him. They'll have quite a few years to think up fitting revenge, too.

First wedding I've been to in many a year with a solid phalanx of boys, which might have been due either to Jim's popularity or Evelyn's dimples.

VI Jones and Peg Shull are a little doubtful about their popularity after they opened the birthday gifts their friends had prepared for them. Gold rivets "for the smaller holes in your head," a broken Christmas tree ornament, and the most beat up golf balls for the "water holes" are scarcely calculated to make you feel cherished.

Well, today everybody out to be taking a big breath and going around in sweaters and clam diggers to get themselves and their wardrobe rested up for the next round of New Year's parties. Picked up an idea myself from the multicolored glitter one woman was wearing in her hair: I'm going to sprinkle some on the white adhesive tape that hold two halves of my glasses together. Since they have a tendency to make me look cross-eyed anyway, the effect should be different if not endearing.

Miss Alice Mildred Bellairs

Arriving at the office, I find the start of a column in my typewriter roller, probably the work of one of the Wyckoff grandchildren. It reads, "One day a little boy named Ned and a little girl named Gretchen were playing a game of football when all of the air in Ned's football started to come out. Ned was very mad at Gretchen because..."

There it ends, and I have read it over and over, intrigued with the idea of Ned's anger. WHAT had Gretchen done? Here are the makings of a first rate suspense story with no promise that it's going to be completed. Suppose YOU think about it for awhile... The whole idea keeps revolving in my head, and getting nowhere. I might say, however, that if the footballs in YOUR family have a slow leak, we sell all kinds of sporting equipment in our Sears store and catalogue... so visit Sears next time you're in town.

The business of the slow leak reminds me of the young lady from Ohrbach's complaint department who was interviewed the other evening on television. It seems her funniest complaint came from a customer who had purchased an inflatable bra, which looked just fine until one side developed a leak. So far as I can learn, we don't carry such a gadget in our Wyckoff corset department, and it's just as well. Oh, there are bras with a wee bit of padding (just for comfort's sake, you understand!) but if we have those other gay deceivers they must be "under the counter" merchandise—I've never seen them. And I certainly wouldn't care to! I can overlook stretching a point... but there's something frankly dishonest about padding a curve!

Don't know when I've had more fun than during my two-hour luncheon with Sally Ferrebee and "Ike" Miller at the Bob Miller home Thursday. Both women love to talk as much as I do—Ike having an endless supply of clever stories; Sally bubbling over the anecdotes and good will, and I—well, I just chatter. All three of us agreed we should have had a tape recorder on hand—Sally and I would have had enough radio material for programs from now until the fourth of July.

The Miller kitchen is one of the most charming you'll find around town, with a beautiful big window that commands an interesting view of the neighborhood, and is framed with pretty draperies made in our own Wyckoff workroom. And the fried chicken—HMMM! As Southern as Ira's accent, and delectable.

Sally was telling us about the decorating she's been doing in daughter Sally's bedroom. I considered her quite courageous when she mentioned selecting a WHITE rug. White rugs are beautiful... but I always think, "They're just not for me", even though Walter Wyckoff assures me of their washability. Sally verifies this, saying a white rug is absolutely the easiest kind to keep clean. So... if you're in the process of beautifying your home, consider white for the floor. Consider too those wondrously glamorous rugs of silky dyed fiber that look for all the world like fur, and sell for next to nothing in our Wyckoff floor covering department.

VACUUM cleaners, mixers, sewing machines and other labor-saving devices will work with a smoothness and precision now unknown. Motorists will be able to recharge the car battery by plugging it into an electric outlet overnight. These things will become routine because of a tiny electronic device called the silicon semiconductor. This device, about half the size of a tranquilizing pill, replaces vacuum tubes which are many times larger, and converts alternating electric current to direct current. Absolute speed and power control will cut down vibrations in many household appliances. At the Hughes Aircraft company's semiconductor division in Los Angeles, the miniature devices are speeding off the assembly lines to meet the needs of a business which barely existed five years ago, but now is burgeoning with sales of more than $125 million for this year alone.

In final assembly, metal caps are put on transistors.

Display Includes Dozen Models Of Most Powerful Vehicles Built By Company

THE MOST powerful tractors ever built by Ford Motor Co. are on display at Raymond Price Inc., Mountainhome. New Ford tractors in the "three-four plow" Powermaster class have 10 per cent more drawbar horsepower than formerly, while the "two-three plow" Workmaster tractors are 8 per cent more powerful, Mr. Price said.

In addition to their higher power, the new Ford tractors feature a newly designed front grille, distinctive color styling, improved fender design, brighter headlights for field work and highway safety, greater gas tank capacity, and restyled instrument panel with electric fuel gauge, Price added.

"The higher horsepower of these new tractors have a two-fold significance. First, of course, they increase the work capacity of the tractors under all conditions. Second, they are obtained through greater engine efficiency. With compression ratio of 7.5 to one, a figure unsurpassed by any other gasoline tractor engine in our field, our Workmaster tractors now produce 32 horsepower at the drawbar. Powermaster models give a hefty 44 drawbar horsepower, plenty to pull a four bottom plow with ease in most soil conditions," he said.

Dozen Models

"There are 12 models of the new tractors, six in each power class. Three are special utility models; six are all-purpose four-wheel models and three are row-crop models, with three optional front wheel arrangements.

"We extend a cordial invitation to all farmers and others interested in power machinery to visit our showroom to see the features of these new tractors. We sincerely believe that every tractor user will be impressed with the power capabilities and the other improvements made in the Ford line," Price said.

New convenience features in all models of these tractors are found on the instrument panel. Since the operator is interested in knowing when the battery is discharging, a red warning light now replaces the conventional ammeter gauge. Also new in the instrument cluster is an electric fuel gauge which gives an instant reading of the fuel level. The "Proofmeter" showing engine, tractor and power take-off speeds, and hours of operation is standard equipment on all except utility models.

Kitchen Center Of Family Life

WHEN Mr. and Mrs. Homeowner decide they're going to do the place over a bit, the first room they generally head for today is the kitchen. They are equipped with hammers, sewing box, paint, pliers, plans and their wallet and they want a new kitchen.

There are many reasons why the home food-factory is their prime interest. The first is the trend in kitchens. Once, the roomy kitchen was the core of the home. Entertainment, eating and family life were centered around this room, which had a big table, a fireplace, a rocking chair and a cat.

Then the kitchen bowed to science. It became a laboratory—a white-walled cell, efficient-looking as all get out, clean and miserable to be in. The idea was to work fast and get out, and was promoted by awkward spaces and heights, cramped quarters and an operating-room atmosphere.

Wants Space
It didn't take Mrs. Homeowner long to discover that the kitchen was a singularly depressing place to spend the major part of her day. Now, again she wants space and ease of serving and preparing, color, comfort, company. In short, she wants her grandmother's kitchen back, cat and all.

The second reason why the Homeowners change their kitchen first is that Papa is spending time there, too. The third reason they want to improve their kitchen is that manufacturers have come out with a dizzying array of major and small appliances that make the kitchen more economical, easier and more fun.

The family's dissatisfaction with the operating-room kitchen atmosphere has been beautifully answered by the manufacturer of Beautycraft kitchens. These versatile all-steel, "Curv-Line" Kitchens are sold in this area by the H. C. Archibald Co., 406 Main St.

McCulloch Chain Saw Shows Power

THE McCULLOCH D-44 chain saw—a new, lightweight, direct-drive power saw for farm and forest use—is now available at Van D. Yetter off Route 402, near Marshalls Creek.

The D-44 is manufactured by McCulloch Motors Corp., world's largest builder of chain saws. "The D-44 is the most powerful of all lightweight direct-drive chain saws," according to Mr. Yetter, "because of its performance and perfect balance. The D-44 can be operated for many hours with minimum fatigue.

"Light Touch"

"In fact," he said, "we call the D-44 the saw with the 'light touch' because it feels itself right into the tree. An operator need only guide his D-44—the saw does most of the work. And his D-44 is so superbly balanced, that he can completely control its action from the pistol grip handle.

In addition, the D-44 has the lightest ready-to-cut weight of any high-performance direct-drive saw.

Outstanding among the D-44's other advantages, Mr. Yetter said, is its low price, depending on blade length. Blades are available in 12, 18, 24 and 30 inch sizes.

Other D-44 features—many of them exclusive to McCulloch products—include quick, easy starting with rewind built-in starter, keyboard controls, chrome-plated wrap-around handlebars, full-power operation in all positions.

Repair Cracks In Ceiling

BEFORE repainting a ceiling, all cracks should be carefully filled, then smoothed level with the surface. Small hairline cracks can be filled with spackling compound. As it sets very rapidly, you'll be wise to smooth the surface before the spackling material is quite dry. This lessens the amount of sanding you'll need to do. To apply the filler, you can use a putty knife, an old kitchen knife—or even your finger and thumb!

Rust-Oleum, the paint that it "as distinctive as your own fingerprint," guarantees both.

Rust-Oleum penetration, traced by radioactive C14 radioisotope tracing methods, now enables you to literally look under the metal through the eyes of radioactivity.

You can see this for yourself at the Pocono Paint-Up Center, 722 Main St., local Rust-Oleum dealer.

Stops Rust

Drop in this week and see the actual photomicrographs of how this unique paint stops rust by penetration.

Rust-Oleum doesn't "bridge-over" the tiny, microscopic pits in the metal, but actually goes into these pits to drive out air and moisture and coat the metal with a penetrating, low-surface-tension film that expands and contracts with the metal.

Most manufacturers of protective materials specify that rusted metal surfaces must be free of rust before applying their product.

ANOTHER year is almost in the past. The year '57 saw quite a few exploits and happenings in the area.

From the standpoint of putting the locale on the national map, sports-wise, the antics during the training stint of Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson was most noteworthy.

Not that the "Hurricane" was a fighter of note but what went on daily at his Harry Freedman camp comically turned heavy days into lighter ones for sports fans here and faraway.

Locally, the unexpected resurgence of East Stroudsburg High on the gridiron brought many happy moments to Cavalier diehards and even to those who have to admire the quality of grid teams Jack Kist turns out across the Broadhead.

Eastburg hit the heights of its '57 campaign when they downed a good Nazareth eleven.

Just as unexpected but more on the could-happen side was the defeat of Eastburg by arch-rival Stroudsburg High in their annual Turkey Day skirmish. The Cavaliers "won" in every department but the score—13-12.

The man always said they pay off on the final result. That gentleman could be and was John Whitehead, head coach of the victorious Mountaineers.

Pocono Township High dominated both sports in the Monroe County scholastic League. In basketball, the charges of Harry Whitehead were champ, and in football, the selfsame Whitehead guided a well-coached five to the district's court crown.

Up on the hill Miss Katherine Griffith retained her winning-est ESSTC coaching title by tutoring the Warriortettes in field hockey to an unblemished season, and placing five girls on the All-Philadelphia District Field Hockey Tournament teams.

Younger-style baseball unveiled two tournament bound nines in Eastburg Little League's team surge to the District playoffs before testing defeat, and Monroe County Babe Ruth All-Stars getting in to the Northeastern area run-offs before bowing out.

Four coaches of sports teams well-known to the area resigned head posts. Granville (Fats) Evans, Bangor football coach, left after the '57 season and was replaced by Slater assistant "Duke" Pritchard. Lionel (Jud) Hall bowed out at Wilson High and his vacancy is still unfilled.

At ESSTC, Jim Reed stepped down to assistant basketball coach and turned the Warrior reins over to Dr. Richard Luce. Rudy Penza quit as Pen Argy basketball boss last May and Dick Wolford was named to replace the former Lafayette back under Clipper Smith.

A golf pro also decided a change was needed. The linksman was Walt Thell, pro at Glen Brook until October, who took up camp at the area's "new" Water Gap Country Club, more famously known as Wolf Hollow.

Harold Storm continued his domination of the golfers at Glen Brook by winning the club championship for the third straight year. Storm also teamed with another Glen Brook favorite Augie Lockwick in winning laurels in the Lehigh Valley Golf Association's tournament runoffs.

On the bigger diamond, Lake Harmony captured the Pocono Mountain Baseball League's playoff and regular season titles; and East Stroudsburg Teachers, under Dr. George Ockershausen, topped a share of the Teachers Conference crown.

There were other happenings worthy of note. Some of which will send 1957 out in a blaze of glory, and others which would tend to "w" up the awakening of '58.

All-in-all the past year brought joy on the athletic front. So much, in fact, that 1958 will have a hard time meeting the records already in the books.

Lions Win NFL Championship

Rout Browns, 59-14, Behind 'General' Rote

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP)—The Detroit Lions, Cinderella team of the National Football League, won the world's professional football championship today, burying the favored Cleveland Browns under a 59-14 avalanche.

It was the worst defeat ever suffered by the Cleveland club and brought the Lions a full measure of revenge for a 56-10 shellacking dealt them by the same Browns in the title contest three seasons back.

Strong-armed Tobin Rote directed the Lion attack flawlessly, throwing four touchdown passes — one a near-record pitch — and scoring another touchdown himself.

Stunning even their most ardent supporters, the Lions captured their fourth world championship and set a new all-time team scoring record in doing it. The old Detroit record was 52 points, accomplished twice.

Rote, shouldering the quarter-back duties all by himself over the last three crucial weeks of the campaign after a broken ankle sidelined veteran Bobby Layne, fired touchdown passes of 26, 78, 24 and 32 yards. He hit rookie end Steve Junker on two scoring pitches and connected with veterans Jim Doran and Dave Middleton on the others.

Covers 78 Yards
The one to Doran covered 78 yards, only four yards short of the record for a title game.

A yelling, stamping crowd of 55,263 sat in brilliant sunshine and 32-degree weather and watched the amazing Lions—whose fans have learned to call them the "Gas-house Gang"—turn the Browns team into a flummox, ineffective giant from the very outset.

Striking for 17 points in the first period against the defense rated the finest in the league, the Lions never let the Browns threaten.

The Detroit club, writing a fantastic finish to a season that has produced almost everything, scored two touchdowns in every quarter and throttled a Cleveland offense headed by rookie fullback Jim Brown, the league's leading ball carrier.

Rote, given a tremendous standing ovation when he left the game with a 52-14 advantage, and line-backer captain Joe Schmidt were mobbed before they could get to the dugout tunnel leading to their dressing room.

Thousands of screaming fans held them up 10 minutes before turning their attention to the goal posts. But cordons of police and stadium attendants managed to keep the big crowd away from the goal posts they wanted so badly to rip down.

$4,295 For Each
The victory was worth $4,295.41 to each member of the victorious Lions team. The Cleveland shares were $2,750.30 apiece.

The game set a new record for gross receipts which totaled $532,967.50 including radio and television. The game was nationally televised on NBC-TV. The net receipts after taxes, rentals and expenses, amounted to $479,582.61.

The Lions scored the first time they had the ball. Taking a punt on their own 11 they moved 66 yards to the Cleveland's 23 but had to settle for Jim Martin's 31-yard field goal midway through the first period. Martin successfully converted eight times in addition to his field goal.

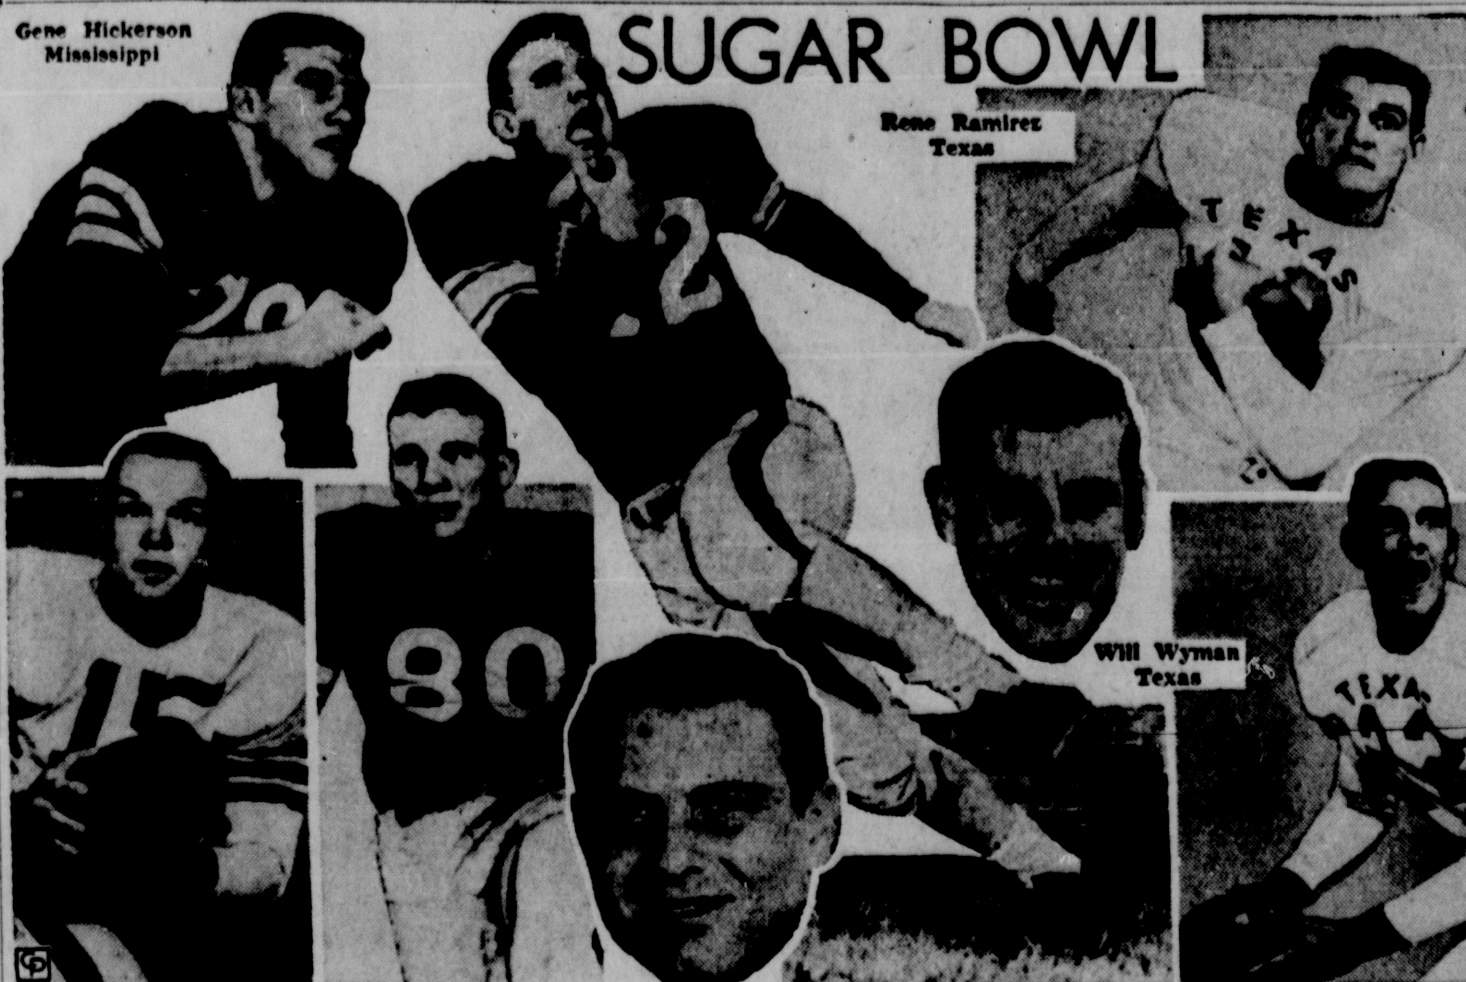

The Browns, whose precision machine rolled to the Eastern Conference championship with almost effortless ease, retained the ball for only two plays after the kickoff. Linebacker Bob Long intercepted one of Tommy O'Connell's passes on the Cleveland 36 and ran it back to the 32.

Rote rumbled up the middle for 17 yards on the second play from scrimmage and then sneaked over for the score.

Campbell Fumbles
Olympic decathlon champion Milt Campbell fumbled the kickoff and rookie halfback Terry Barr of Michigan recovered on the Browns' 15. Four plays later Gene Gedman bulldozed over the one-foot line.

The Browns finally got an offense moving and traveled 78 yards in four plays with Brown racing 29 yards around end for the score.

But the Lions quickly moved back into an authoritative lead with a bit of razzle-dazzle that climaxed an 87-yard thrust. With fourth down and 11 yards to go, Rote knelt at the Cleveland 33 for an apparent field goal attempt by

NEW ORLEANS RIVALS — Mississippi, with an 8-1-1 record, tangles with Texas, 6-3-1, in the annual Sugar Bowl game at New Orleans, January 1. The Sugar Bowl was first played in 1935 before 23,000. Today the game draws upwards of 75,000. Also on the Sugar Bowl program area series of sports events, involving track and field, basketball and tennis.

Brown Is Philosophical

DETROIT, Dec. 29 (AP)—Paul Brown, coach of the badly beaten Cleveland Browns, looks at his team's 59-14 licking about the only way he could.

"I'm philosophical about it," said Brown, managing a smile for the small knot of newsmen he'd let into the dressing room 25 minutes after the game with Detroit for the National Football League championship.

"The ball was just going to bounce that way and it did," he said. "The Lions were whetted to a fine competitive edge and we had been standing by waiting."

His reference was to the Western Division playoff between Detroit and San Francisco last week while the Browns took a weekend off with their Eastern Division crown already sewed up.

Martin. Instead, Rote took the pass from center, circled to his right and hit Junker with a pass at the five-yard line and he stepped into the end zone unopposed.

Barr intercepted an O'Connell pass on the Brown 19 late in the second period and raced down the sidelines for the fourth Detroit touchdown of the half.

The Lions whipped the Browns 20-7 three weeks ago in this same stadium to keep alive their western division hopes.

12 Out Of 19

Rote completed 12 of 19 passes for 280 yards and the Detroit defense picked off five Cleveland passes and recovered a pair of fumbles.

The Lions yielded Cleveland's second touchdown midway through the third period. It was an 80-yard drive in 10 plays with ex-Lion Lew Carpenter racing five yards for the score.

Again the Lions struck furiously with Rote connecting with Doran for the 78-yard pass play on the team's first play after the kickoff.

Detroit scored again to make it 45-14 late in the third period. Rote set up the score with his passing and capped the drive with a 24-yard scoring heave to Junker. Middleton grabbed a 32-yard pass falling down in the Cleveland end zone a few moments later as Rote hit on seven straight completions.

Cleveland 0 7 7 0-14
Detroit 17 14 14 59
Cleveland scoring: Touchdowns—Brown (29, end run); L. Carpenter (5, run). Conversions—Groza 2.

Detroit scoring: Touchdowns—Rote (1, plunge); Gedman (1-foot plunge); Junker 2 (26, pass-run from Rote, 24, pass-run from Rote); Doran (78, pass-run from Rote); Middleton (32, pass from Rote); Cassidy (17, pass-run from Reichow). Field goal—Martin 31. Conversions—Martin 8.

Naomi Lake Races On Ice Set Back To January 12

POCONO PINES—Previous announcements from Ice Racing Enterprises stated that the Naomi Lake Grand Circuit Ice Race would open their season on Sunday, January 5. Ice permitting.

Due to the mild and rainy weather, there won't be sufficient thickness of ice, so the opening of the ice racing season will be set back a week to January 12.

Entries which have been sent for the 5th will be good for the 12th. Drivers from varied areas have responded vigorously in anticipation of some exciting racing. All that remains is the advent of some real winter temperatures and then the fun starts.

There will be plenty of fun on the ice with some of the world's finest made sports cars, competing against each other to bring home silver from one of the country's most unique sporting events.

Maneuvering Thrills
Handling their cars on the frozen expanse of this high-lake, the Poconos lake, drivers will also experience the thrills of maneuvering these sporty machines through an S curve, two 90 degree turns, a 180 degree turn and two straightaways, where on "fast days cars have turned up speeds exceeding the century mark."

Beginning on the 12th of January, ice races will continue on Sundays throughout the winter. The January 12th race schedule is comprised of a 12-lap race for cars over 1600 cc., and the 25-lap "Le Mans Start" feature race including all cars from both previous races.

4-Hour Endurance
The event scheduled for the second week (Jan. 19) will be a four-hour endurance grand prix featuring all classes.

With the anticipated cold weather, the ice racing season promises to be full of excitement for the drivers and spectators who come to Pocono Pines to see the liveliest of lively motor sports.

Record Smasher Williams' 38 Shoots S-Burg To Consolation Win, 70-63

QUAKERTOWN — Ted Williams, Stroudsburg High's own "Splendid Splinter," rewrote the record books as he personally led the Mountaineers to a 70-63 victory over Quakertown in the consolation game of the Quakertown Invitational Basketball Tournament here Saturday night.

Williams, a 6-5 pivotman, poured in 38 points to establish a Stroudsburg High points mark and a new the Quakertown gymnasium record.

Catasauqua, conquerors of the Mountaineers in the classic opener Thursday, captured the tournament championship by vanquishing Southern Lehigh High, 58-39, in the nightcap Saturday.

But the finals was all Williams' show as the lean Mountaineer paced Stroudsburg to its fifth victory in eight starts. Ted, who is now averaging 24.3 points per game in eight outings, was the big man off the backboards as he grabbed 15 offensively and 12 defensively to help his mates control the ball a majority of the contest.

Help Points Column
Williams got scoring help from his brother Ted, who dashed in 10, and Tom Gross who contributed 13 points and 17 rebounds.

The Mountaineers were in command from the start, taking a 10-point edge in the opening period, 23-13 and increasing it to 15 until midway in the final period when the Quakers crept back to cut the margin to the final seven.

In breaking the school's scoring record, Williams eclipsed the old mark of 34, set by Doug Shook, now a basketballer at East Stroudsburg State Teachers.

61 in Tourney
In the two-day tournament, Ted walked away with individual honors getting 23 in the opening night to go along with his phenomenal 38 in the lid-closer Saturday. From the field Saturday, Williams hit on 12 of 22 shots, while from the free throw line, he meshed 14-out of 16 foul attempts.

Mountaineer coach John Kuppice, following the team's loss to Catasauqua in the opener, switched his offense against the Quakers. Stroudsburg lined up with Ted in the pivot, and Gross and Ted Williams up front with the biggest of the Mountaineers. Outside Dick Everitt and Leo Frailey set up the plays.

Move Pays Off
This new move paid off against Quakertown. So good in fact, that the host five was forced to go into a press for more than three quarters of the tilt.

Stroudsburg held at halftime 39-27, and held a 55-42 spread at the end of three stanzas.

Yosko Demands Investigation Of School System In State

'Frills' Top Point Of Contention

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29 — A demand for a legislative investigation of Pennsylvania's school system came yesterday even as the weekend convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn. was ending here.

The demand was made by Sen. Joseph J. Yosko (D-Northampton) who said in a statement that there is too much emphasis on "frills" in school curriculum to the detriment of fundamentals.

He proposed that the Joint State Government Commission make a 60-day study of the state school system. He urged a special session of the Legislature if necessary, to correct any deficiencies. The next regular session of the assembly is set for January 1958.

Precious Time
"Precious time is being wasted on how to drive a car, cross a street, dance, swim, play, set a table, wash clothes and such," Yosko asserted.

"With Sputniks orbiting the earth, our education system sits back and smugly views its lavishly furnished home-economics departments while biology, chemistry and physics departments are operating with bailing wire and sealing wax," he added.

The Joint State Government Commission, as the assembly's continuing research agency, of the situation, Yosko said, should undertake any investigation.

Dh. Charles H. Boehm, state superintendent of public instruction, commented:

"Quite a number of our high schools' science departments are better equipped than those in many colleges. The others are far from being in the state indicated."

Boehm reiterated a view he expressed Saturday before the final session of the 106th annual convention of the Pennsylvania State Education Assn.

He had asserted the state "is not going to take away a student's choice of vocation" and that "we are not going to imitate the Russian schools or system. We are not going to be stamped nor are we going to sit back and wait."

Yosko agreed with the teachers' convention that more classroom teachers were needed on the special committee of 100 Gov. Leader has invited here on Jan. 28-29 to consider the state's education needs.

"The governor's committee," Yosko said, "is top-heavy with administrators and they're not likely to criticize themselves."

"The administrators are an interlocking directorate of educational bureaucrats. They are confused the public and the legislature with high-sounding but meaningless gobbledegook, aimed at perpetuating themselves in office."

Asked to comment on this statement, Boehm said:

"Actually about 20 per cent of the 100 persons invited to the January education conference are classroom teachers. I expect that the number at the conference will be increased to about 150 and of those, you may be sure, a still larger percentage will be classroom teachers."

Film Made For Party Harmony

READING, Pa., Dec. 29 — The chairman of the Republican State Finance Committee says a 10-minute color television film he made is an appeal for party harmony and financial contributions—and nothing else.

The statement by Arthur T. McGonigle was made in reply to a question of whether the film, as had been reported, was to be used as a test of whether he was photographic enough to be appealing to voters.

McGonigle said in reply to questions that the film had nothing to do with the possibility he might seek his party's nomination for governor next year. "I haven't answered that question in my own mind yet," he said.

The film, made in national GOP headquarters in Washington Friday, depicts him calling for party unity and early contributions to the campaign fund, McGonigle said.

Husband Dies After Fight With Wife

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 29 — Herbert Reif, 40, died yesterday from loss of blood about an hour after he put his arm through a glass door following an argument with his wife.

Reif, father of three young children, was found lying on a street about half a block from Germantown Hospital and less than two blocks from his home. He apparently had attempted to walk to the hospital for treatment of his wound, a severed artery in his right arm.

Police cited his wife, Elizabeth, 37, as saying they had quarreled and he stomped from the house in anger. As he left, she said, the sound of breaking glass could be heard.

She went to the front of the home, found the glass door shattered and her husband gone. Police could not say if Reif deliberately had put his hand through the window.

Peachtree Leaves On Wanted List

LEBANON, Pa., Dec. 29 — Guy Bord has an ample supply of peachtree leaves. Two bags full.

And, says Bord, he's perfectly willing to send along a 19-year-old Atlanta, Ga., miss as many of the leaves as she feels she needs.

The young lady, whose name is known to Atlanta City Clerk Joe Richardson and only a few others, suffers from baldness.

She appealed to Richardson last week for some peachtree leaves—which she would dip in strong tea to produce what she understood to be a sure cure for baldness.

But, Richardson reported sadly, his supply of the "remedy" leaves was gone and he wouldn't be able to help the girl until spring.

Bord read about the misfortune of the girl, who holds a teaching certificate but just doesn't want to face a classroom baldheaded.

He says if Richardson will just pass along the girl's name from his secret file of peachtree leaf users, the cure will be sent to the young lady.

Pocono Fireman Struck By Automobile While Answering Alarm

Injuries Prove To Be Slight

TANNERSVILLE—A Pocono Township fireman was slightly injured Saturday while answering a chimney fire at Meadowbrook Manor, Cherry Lane.

Fire Chief Edward F. Metzger of Pocono Township identified him as Fred Nidlund.

He sustained bruises and abrasions, according to reports, when struck by a car driven by Richard Howell, another fireman, as Howell pulled his vehicle into the parking lot in front of the fire house.

Treatment

Nidlund was treated by Dr. Edward T. Horn, but did not require hospitalization.

The chimney fire resulted from an overheated fire place, Metzger said. No service was provided by firemen.

The building has a slate roof and firemen stood by for one and one-half hours while the chimney burned itself out.

Hope Troupe Performs In Airplane

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 29—Bob Hope, back from an 18,000-mile tour of Far Eastern bases, today told of putting on a special show for a Coast Guard weather ship from a plane 17,000 feet overhead.

The comedian and his troupe of entertainers were on the last leg of their holiday trip when the Air Force plane passed over the weather ship, November, midway between Hawaii and California.

Hope went on the plane's radio and beamed a rapid-fire series of gags to the 150 men floating below, then put on the other stars of his show, including Jayne Mansfield, Jerry Colonna, Erin O'Brien and Carole Jarvis.

Plane Rocks

Those aboard the plane swear the tiny weather ship visibly rocked when Miss Mansfield cooed over the intercom: "Boys, I'd like to be your house mother down there."

The Hope troupe put on more than 30 shows during its whirlwind tour to bring Christmas cheer to GIs overseas.

When the comedian returned to his home he found a Christmas present from his wife—a huge globe with the message, "Now see the world from a rocking chair."

State Bar Association To Air Subject

HARRISBURG, Dec. 29—The controversial subject of the effect of contributory negligence in the trial of personal injury damage suits will again be brought before the membership of the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. at next month's meeting, here, Gilbert Nurick, Harrisburg, chairman of the Association's Civil Law Committee, revealed today.

Under Pennsylvania's present contributory negligence rule, Nurick pointed out, claimants for damages are barred from any recovery if it can be established that they were guilty of contributory negligence, regardless of degree.

Under the doctrine of comparative negligence, which the Bar Association rejected a year ago after a lively discussion, contributory negligence in itself is no bar to recovery, but the amount of damages recoverable is reduced in proportion to the amount of negligence attributable to the claimant.

Direct Connection

Under a "compromise" proposal to be submitted to the membership next month, contributory negligence by a claimant would bar recovery only if it had a direct connection with his injury.

The text of the resolution embodying the proposed change follows:

"Resolved, that the Pennsylvania Bar Assn. sponsor legislation in the next session of the General Assembly providing that in any action of trespass founded upon negligence, contributory negligence of the plaintiff shall not bar an action on his part unless such contributory negligence is a proximate cause of his injury."

Although the new proposal is narrower in scope than that which was put to the association a year ago, Nurick predicted that there would be a great deal of controversy and debate on the issue.

In support of this opinion he pointed to the fact that the subcommittee which first considered the new resolution was divided on the subject, with two members voting for approval and one for disapproval, and that when the matter was brought before the full Civil Law Committee a similar situation resulted, with eight members voting for approval and five for disapproval.

Next month's meeting will be held in Harrisburg's Penn Harris Hotel, Tuesday, Jan. 28, through Friday morning, Jan. 31. The report of the Civil Law Committee will be brought to the floor for discussion probably either Wednesday morning or Thursday morning.

Lackawanna Installs New Heat 'Nerve' On Trains

NEW YORK, Dec. 29—Electronic "nerves" that automatically "feel" and measure the heat of journal boxes on passing trains, have been installed by the Lackawanna Railroad on its main line at B & O Junction, about 45 miles east of Buffalo and near Linwood, N. Y.

Known as the "hot box detector", the device is an adaptation of the electronic "eye" and records on a paper tape the temperature of each journal box of a passing train.

Under the direction of J. R. Heisler, the railroad's signal engineer, the "electric nerves" have been placed on each side of the two rails that make up the east-bound track. They consist of tube shaped recording devices that contain a highly sensitive lens, beamed at the outer side of each rail. A magnitized shutter which protects the lens from the sun's rays and the weather, automatically opens as a train starts to pass.

According to Heisler, as the journals of each car pass, the sensitive "nerves" of the lens pick up the heat from each journal box and through vacuum tube amplifiers, transmit the impulses to a recording machine in a nearby building. This recording machine contains a paper tape similar to that of a cardiograph.

On this tape are two parallel lines indicating the rails and, as each journal passes over the "hot box detector", a slight "pip" indents the lines. This indicates that the temperature of the journal is normal. However, when an over-heated journal passes over the tape, the "pip" on the tape immediately becomes elongated, corresponding to the temperature recorded by the electronic "nerve".
